¹ There is an abbreviation but I can't work out what this word could be

The gist is:

John Young came to court and for having defaulted in appearance many times his goods were distrained and he did homage to the lord for his lands and holdings (either on the Feast of St Mary Magdalene when the court was held or 10 [days] afterwards, I'm not sure). I don't know where William Badele in Haselwyke and Cobham comes into it. In the margin it says he was fined 2 pence.

Tenants holding lands in Machonescroft [sorry I wrote crost in the transcription] were distrained to the satisfaction of the lord and paid 10 and a half pence annually

Thomas White came to the court and took from the lord a croft called Stonescroft and 3 acres of land in Asshenham and Lowsedges, [the lord, presumably] holding to himself by the custom of the manor the rents and service due to him.

John Quick was fined with Reginald Oxherde and Matilda his wife for many debts – 3 times

It looks like it says all tenants were distrained... 'compertum est' means 'it is found (by the court)'

The 'messor' was the overseer of the harvest, so I think it means he was paid 3 shillings 6 pence

The 'cadaverator' was the inspector of the carcasses, but apart from seeing 'of lambs' and something about meat in that entry I don't know what was going on.
